Ease of use

You may have chosen inflatables because they are usually relatively easy to set up, thanks to their self-inflating properties and the stakes that come with them. However, some inflatables are easier to use than others, so it helps to look for ones that have clearly written or video instructions. Consider not only how easy they are to install, but also how challenging they may be to take down and store after all the Christmas fun is over.

Durability A

When choosing inflatables, make sure you look for ones that are well-made, include sturdy stakes with reinforced seams and thick, waterproof or water-resistant materials. If your inflatables glow, you'll also want to consider how long those lights will last before they need to be replaced.

Style

Most importantly, your choice of Christmas inflatables should be based on style. What this means to you may be very different from your neighbors. From classic Christmas scenes to more quirky characters, there's something for everyone. In the name of celebrating the holidays, almost anything goes this season.
